

Putting climate security on African agendas

INITIATIVE ON
Climate Resilience

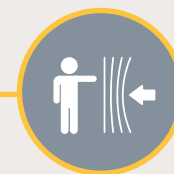

FOCUS
Climate Security

Climate shocks act as threat multipliers, amplify tensions, and increase the risk of violence

The potential for conflict escalates as climate change impacts intensify

CGIAR responds to rising demand from national, regional and international partners for evidence and capacity building

Science

Engagement

Results

Impact

Long-term investment

Climate Security Observatory pinpoints how, where, and who is impacted & suggests solutions

Evidence-based recommendations using highly localised assessments, unlocking climate finance, strengthening coordination, and enhancing the peace potential of climate actions

ClimBeR 2022-2023

Provided evidence for AU Africa Continental Climate Risk Assessment; IGAD-CAEP Regional Adaptation Strategy

Briefed among members of the United Nations Security Council

Trained 250+ policymakers, leaders, and climate negotiators in collaboration with AGNES and CCCPA

2023-2024

African Climate Security Risk Assessment will form the basis of the Common Africa Position on climate, peace, and security

IGAD-CAEP Regional Adaptation Strategy will guide member states on their response to climate shocks

Policymakers, leaders, and climate negotiators are better equipped to address climate security risks

Future expectations

The African Union will use the Common African Position to negotiate and push the climate-peace-security nexus

IGAD Member States will account for climate security risks and reduce the risks of maladaptation

Policymakers, leaders, and climate negotiators will address climate security risks in programs and policies
